Property overview

About this property

Welcome to 8212 N 14th Street, an inviting 3-bedroom, 2-bath concrete-block home in Tampa’s Sulphur Springs neighborhood. This single-story residence offers a flexible layout with separate living and family rooms, an eat-in kitchen, and an indoor laundry area. The converted garage provides additional flexibility as a bonus room, home office, media room, or hobby space. The U-shaped kitchen features generous cabinet and counter space, updated hardware, and granite countertops. Hard-surface flooring, double-pane windows, ceiling fans, and updated bathrooms provide comfort and convenience throughout the home. Major improvements include a water-treatment system installed in April 2023, an HVAC system replaced in December 2023, a water heater replaced in 2025, and the main sewer line replaced in April 2026. Public records also show a roof permit issued in 2023. ADT security equipment is installed, and a one-year home warranty will transfer to the buyer at closing. Outside, the fenced 50-by-100-foot lot provides room to relax, garden, entertain, or create your own outdoor retreat. A storage shed installed in April 2024 provides additional space for tools and equipment. Mature trees provide welcome shade, while off-street parking adds everyday convenience. With no HOA or CDD fees and a FEMA Flood Zone X designation, the home is conveniently located near ZooTampa, Busch Gardens, I-275, shopping, dining, and Downtown Tampa. Schedule your private showing and discover the features of this Tampa home.
