About this property

The antithesis of the ubiquitous white box, this extraordinary Charleston-inspired residence in coveted Sunset Park is a home with soul, history and craftsmanship that simply cannot be recreated. Thoughtfully transformed over decades and painstakingly renovated by the current owners, this home blends timeless architectural character with beautifully elevated modern living. Gracious porches, reclaimed wood floors, intricate millwork and moldings, fireplaces and exceptional custom woodwork create a warmth and individuality rarely found in newer construction. Generous living and entertaining spaces unfold throughout the home, highlighted by an immense primary suite with dual fireplaces and a sense of scale and privacy all its own. Three additional bedrooms are located on the second floor, along with the convenience of two laundry rooms within the residence. Completed in 2026, the expansive third floor introduces an entirely new level of versatility with two large entertainment rooms ideal for a media room, full-scale gym, playroom or additional gathering spaces, plus two full baths and the fifth bedroom—creating exceptional flexibility for guests, extended family, work or recreation. Outside, the newly completed pool and beautifully designed surroundings provide an inviting setting for entertaining and everyday living. Mature landscaping and the home's distinctive Southern architecture create a sense of privacy and permanence in one of South Tampa's most established neighborhoods, Sunset. Park. Rich in character yet completely relevant for today's lifestyle, 4706 W San Jose is the culmination of decades of vision, craftsmanship and care—a truly singular South Tampa residence.
